Police Promotion Super Course-Andrew Borrello 2013-01-07 The contents of this book are designed specifically for law enforcement officers, front-line supervisors, and managers who have reached the point in their careers where they are ready to advance their rank. The focus of this information is on the police promotional oral interview. In a majority of police agencies across the country the oral interview is both the most critical part of the promotion process and the most difficult. An officer's performance during the oral interview is paramount because the process is highly competitive. Officers must "out-score" others also vying for promotion. This is difficult in that candidates may be competing against dozens or even hundreds of other police personnel many of whom may have greater education or more experience. The goal of this book is to provide professional law enforcement officers with a highly effective and valuable preparatory edge. This "edge" translates into real-world techniques, easy-to-apply skills, and a wealth of information on how to be distinctive and perform in an exceptional manner during the oral interview. The police officer, deputy, supervisor, or manager who utilizes the content of this unique book correctly can stand out among the other candidates, be more competitive, achieve preparatory confidence, and up their performance toward higher interview scores.

MASTERING THE ASSESSMENT CENTER PROCESS-Linsey C. Willis 2017-09-19 The Assessment Center process is the best method for identifying management potential in candidates and whether they can demonstrate a talent for planning and organizing, and possess the necessary judgment, communication skills and decision-making ability to move up the ranks. Many candidates do possess these abilities, but they have not learned how to apply them. This book will teach you how to use all your potential. Law enforcement officers are often confused, afraid, nervous or just plain curious about what they will experience when they go through the process. Most books on the assessment center process cover primarily its history, the skill dimensions, a description of the process and provide a few sample exercises. What makes this book different is that it provides an experiential approach to preparing for an assessment center by including numerous practice exercises, experiential learning, role player scripts, sample detailed Assessor Guides, and information from an experienced professional who has a 360-degree view of assessment center processes. By practicing these exercises, the reader will learn a great deal about their potential and abilities. The organization of this book starts with the notorious, challenging, perplexing, incorrectly defined and life-changing in-basket exercise. The author has many years of experience with in-baskets, which has included providing feedback to candidates and training assessors. Many of the essential sample exercises and components of the in-basket exercise are included in this book and have been used in past assessment center processes or in customized exercises. After reading the sample exercises and commentary contained herein, you will be convinced that your time and money have been well spent. Why? Because you will have practiced the exercises herein and, beyond just reading about the assessment center process, you will have learned about many of the most important components of the process.

Be the Police Supervisor-Laurie Gray 2019-03-26 The promotion from officer or deputy to supervisor is the hardest to earn because the transition to thinking like a supervisor is required and it is because of this change in thinking is difficult, candidates are not able to make it. Whether the promotional test is an oral board or a complex assessment center with multiple job simulations, the top candidates will think and act like the supervisor and that is what makes this book different. Learn about ways to change your thinking. The authors also approach the topics differently than other books on promotional testing. John Gray was a Police Chief for 12 years during a 32-year career and then developed 150 promotional tests over 8 years from detectives to Chief. He has a graduate degree in Adult Education and was on the faculty for command schools. Laurie Gray worked with over 800 candidates as a test administrator. Both are educators and trainers. This book is also about how to prepare for the job of being a supervisor. Skills, abilities, knowledge and attributes are all woven into the narrative of how to prepare for the promotional test. If there was a textbook for a pre-supervisor's course, this would be it. The book includes the common exercises and types of questions used at promotional processes, how scoring is done, and what the assessors are looking for. But, the authors take the subject to the next level with themes about leadership and management, principles and values, the common mistakes and what great candidates do. Learn how to weave these into your performance on test day. Their writing is direct and clear, easy to read, and the topics are illustrated with examples and key points are easily identified. At the end of each chapter, the key themes are listed for review. The most prepared candidate often earns the top scores. Many candidates approach preparing for the test like a sprint just before the test. These candidates are often out-competed by those who have been walking a plan of career and personal development. Their confidence comes in increments as they accumulate knowledge and practice the skills that a supervisor must master. On test day, these candidates are self-assured and not overly nervous. This book provides a blue print of topics and ideas to use in your planning. The most common mistake that candidates make at the promotional test is to respond like the master officer or deputy rather than thinking, talking and acting like a supervisor. This is why veteran officers, seasoned detectives, or employees who have done a variety of assignments are out-competed by those who have made the transition to being the supervisor. Learn how to think like a supervisor, how to apply the core themes of management and leadership, how to express yourself more effectively, and how to be at the top of your game on test day. This book distills down the useful and important skills and knowledge from years of experience of managing agencies and developing and administering 150 promotional processes into what the top candidates and successful supervisors must possess. This book may be the beginning of a foundation of learning that will stay with you your whole career.

Tactical Reload-Adam L Wilson 2020-07-15 This book is needed now more than ever. Featuring interviews with Tim Kennedy, Mark Divine. Lt. Col. Dave Grossman, Sheriff Joe Lombardo of Las Vegas, Atlanta Chief Erika Shields, and former US representative Dave Reichert. Tactical Reload offers a road map for police professionals eager to succeed as America transitions from unrest to a new age of social enlightenment. Through honest personal stories and interviews with top police chiefs and thought leaders, Wilson thoroughly explores the present crisis of law enforcement and foreshadows a safer future. Adam Wilson speaks to the tremendous potential for all law enforcement officers including rookies and those coming up the ranks. His personal experiences illuminate the dangers and ironies of protecting community while offering insights for improving the fight against crime. Tactical Reload explores a wide range of topics that shatter assumptions and suggest police may enjoy more respect now than ever before - if they continue to upgrade their mind-set. Embrace "embarrassment school" as an important rite of passage. Respect people who commit crimes as a humane strategy for building trust. Reject millennial entitlement and impatience or jeopardize rank promotions. Win department and community accolades by behaving well in or out of the uniform. Discover why authentic cops don't need to prove they are tough, but they had better heed mental fitness advice from a retired Navy SEAL. Learn how mandatory psychological tests for cops could remove the shame of vulnerability and decrease suicides. Build character and improve advancement by blending new academic credentials with street smarts.

Community Policing and Problem Solving-Kenneth J. Peak 2011-09 COMMUNITY POLICING AND PROBLEM SOLVING: STRATEGIES AND PRACTICES, 6/e is about policing at its most important and challenging levels-in neighborhoods and communities across the nation and abroad. Unique in perspective, its focus is on community policing and problem solving-and the processes that are being implemented under COPPS to control and prevent crime, disorder and fear. Extremely applied, this text focuses on daily processes and tactics and how and why agencies are revolutionizing their traditional philosophy and operations. This sixth edition provides the latest on policing in an information age, how the economy is impacting policing practices and new information concerning COPPs initiatives across the United States.

Unintended Consequences of Peacekeeping Operations-United Nations University 2007 The deployment of a large number of soldiers, police officers and civilian personnel inevitably has various effects on the host society and economy, not all of which are in keeping with the peacekeeping mandate and intent or are easily discernible prior to the intervention. This book is one of the first attempts to improve our understanding of unintended consequences of peacekeeping operations, by bringing together field experiences and academic analysis. The aim of the book is not to discredit peace operations but rather to improve the way in which such operations are planned and managed.
